System initialization complete in 3...2...1...

Attention Operators,

Prepare for an adrenaline-pumping showdown! This is “Isaac's Duel”, where only the most fearless engineers will rise to the top and prove their mechanical might! The arena is set, the stage is primed, and it is time to unleash the power of your creations in a battle like no other. But hold on – before you can step into the ring, you will first need to pass through a rigorous screening process. Only those who can answer the toughest questions and prove they have the strategic and engineering knowledge to back it up will be allowed to compete. Think you have what it takes? Let us see if you can crack the code and get your robot into the fight!

Once you have earned your place, it's time to roll up your sleeves, gear up, and start building. Arm your robot with deadly weapons, defensive armor, and any trick up your sleeve that could give you the upper hand. It is not just about brute force; strategy and intellect are key. Build for speed, strength, or agility – whatever it takes to dominate the competition! You will face off against other robots that are just as fierce, so every move must be calculated and every design choice flawless. The fight is not just about raw power; it is about outsmarting your opponents with superior engineering and precision.

The arena is fierce. The stakes are high. Only the strongest, most strategic robots will survive. Will your robot be the last one standing? Or will your creation be crushed under the weight of its own ambition? Get ready, because in “Isaac's Duel”, it is not just about the machines – it is about the mind behind them! The battle begins now – are you ready to dominate the stage?

Teams that win “Isaac's Duel” will receive the “Sabotage” perk, a strengthening advantage that allows them to eliminate any one team from a module round of their choice. To utilize it, they must present the perk token to the Executive Council prior to the round they wish to use it in. Once the perk is activated, it cannot be used again, making it a one-time opportunity to strategically shift the dynamics of the event in their favor. This formidable power can disrupt the competition and tilt the odds in the favor of the teams which attain this coveted perk. Use it wisely, as its impact can redefine the path to victory!
